Political Digital Advertising Made Easy

Cross Voter is another example of how Simon Group Holdings innovates through digital technology. Cross Voter enables politicians to control the way they advertise to voters. We bypass the hassle of traditional advertising with state-of-the-art, precision technology. Cross Voter is the premier self-serve political digital advertising platform.

How We Are Different

Cross Voter allows political advertisers to control digital ad placement and targeting while identifying how to find the right voters and where to target them. The platform allows advertisers to control the voters that see each digital media message.

What We Do

Cross Voter allows advertisers to control the digital political community by getting their message in front of the voters they need to win campaigns.
